Schmale MP for HKLB

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

"I think anybody can be successful on the other side of the fence," says Jamie Schmale. "I think it has a lot to do with the personality of the individual."

Schmale, 11 years the executive assistant to MP Barry Devolin, is the new Member of Parliament for Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock.

He will sit as an Opposition member in a Liberal majority government that few in the country saw coming.

Schmale, who took 45 per cent of the vote in the riding, beat out Liberal competitor David Marquis, the NDP's Mike Perry and Bill MacCallum of the Green Party.

"The Liberals have promised huge infrastructure dollars," Schmale said. "I'll work with our municipalities, find out what they need and go fight for that."

As a member of the Opposition, he said he'd also "make sure the Liberals don't get carried away with the credit card."

With a red wave sweeping Atlantic Canada, it became clear early in the evening that nationally, results were not going the way Conservative supporters at Schmale's party at Lindsay's Cat and the Fiddle pub had hoped,

"I think we knew it was going to be a fight," Schmale said of the Liberal surge on the East Coast. He said the strength of the victory, though, was a bit of a surprise.

"I think the NDP were just as surprised," he said, noting the Conservatives and NDP lost some key strongholds and promising politicians in the Maritimes.

The 78-day-long campaign delivered to Canadians by the Conservatives could have been partially responsible for the results nationally, Schmale conceded, but said he thought it was good for local candidates, allowing them to thoroughly travel the geographically large riding of Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock.

"We got to get to every corner of the riding," he said.

When it became clear Schmale had taken the seat, he took to the podium to chants of, "Jamie, Jamie, Jamie!"

"I can't say enough about the team of volunteers and friends and supporters that came out these past weeks," Schmale told the room, thanking those who'd worked on his campaign.

He said residents of HKLB had made it clear they wanted their money in their pockets, not in government coffers.

Rhubarb up for provincial award

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

One of Haliburton County's eateries is a finalist in the Ontario Tourism Awards of Excellence, which will be handed out at the Ontario Tourism Summit in Toronto in November.

Carnarvon's Rhubarb, along with its Boshkung Brewing Co., is a top-three finalist for the Ontario Culinary Experience Award.

"We're thrilled," said Terri Mathews-Carl, who owns the restaurant with her husband, chef Christoph Carl.

Rhubarb moved from its former location at Eagle Lake in early 2014, ditching white table cloths for a more contemporary aesthetic and updated menu. Coupled with the opening of the brewery in the basement of the Highway 118 building that formerly housed That Place in Carnarvon, the transition has been a successful one.

"We really put an emphasis on local food," Mathews-Carl said. "We try to buy as much local meat and produce as we possibly can."

The brewery won a gold medal for its North Country Kellerbier at the Canadian Brewing Awards in Niagara Falls this spring. Now available in cans as well as growlers, North Country Kellerbier will soon be available at the restaurant at Toronto's CN Tower.

Mathews-Carl noted this should help promote the area to new people.

"All our cans say #MyHaliburtonHighlands on them," she said, referring to the county's tourism tagline.

Marquis trumpets Liberal majority

Schmale also offered thanks to Devolin, who was present for the victory of his protege.

"Where would I be without my friend, my boss, Barry Devolin," Schmale said.

Schmale, 39, ran against Devolin for the Conservative nomination in the riding back in 2004. When Devolin beat him, Devolin made Schmale his campaign manager and, after he was elected MP, his executive assistant, a position Schmale has held since.

"I can't tell you how much I've learned from you," Schmale told Devolin. "Your advice and mentorship means more to me than I could ever say."

In his congratulatory remarks, Devolin praised Schmale's work as a member of his staff and said while it's the MP's name on the wall, it's the people behind the scenes that keep the wheels turning.

"When people walk through the front door, it's the staff who are doing the work a lot of the time," he said.

HKLB MPP Laurie Scott was also present, offering Schmale congratulations and praising those who had worked on "a long, long campaign."

Marquis showed up to concede and congratulate Schmale.

"All the best to you in Ottawa," Marquis said. "I'm sure you'll do a great job for the people of the riding."

Marquis also took the opportunity to remind the Conservative crowd of the size of the Liberal win.

"The country has clearly set a new direction and I was happy to be part of that," he said.

MacCallum and Perry also showed up to offer Schmale congratulations.

The NDP, which had been leading in the polls early in the campaign, didn't have a good night Monday, shrinking to some 40 seats from the 95 it held at the dissolution of Parliament.

"It was clear that people wanted change and that they went to the Liberal party instead of the NDP this time," Perry told the paper.

He said he was thrilled with his team, wouldn't have done anything differently and would "absolutely" be willing to run again in the future.

Marquis finished with nearly 32 per cent of the vote in Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock, Perry 19.5 and MacCallum four.

According to preliminary figures from Elections Canada at press time, voter turnout in Monday's election was more than 68 per cent, representing a seven per cent jump from the 2011 election, and the highest voter turnout for a federal election since 1993.

Group petitions removal of portage

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

A group of residents is petitioning Parks Canada's effective closure of a portage at the bottom of Gull Lake near Moore Falls, after it removed boat rollers from the route, which has been used for generations.

"The portage and boat rollers at Moore Falls have allowed thousands of paddlers and small watercraft over the decades to enjoy the adjoining lakes," reads the online petition, which has been signed by hundreds of supporters. "The Moore Falls portage has been used without incident for many years. The Gull River canoe route is recognized as one of the region's best heritage canoe routes. The water control structure at Moore Falls is unique on the TSW in that it was designed to be integral with the highway and incorporated an under-highway portage as part of its structure. Paddlers traversing between Moore and Gull Lakes are now forced to portage across the busy Highway 35 very near to a dangerous curve in the roadway. The risk to young kids crossing a highway while portaging a canoe and supplies must surely be greater than any associated risk to using the under-highway portage route. We are asking for your help today. By signing this petition, you agree that you would like us to take actions to influence the federal government, through the local Member of Parliament, to take the necessary first steps to restore the portage and boat rollers."

Parks Canada, which operates the Trent-Severn Waterway, told the paper the removal of the rollers earlier this year was an issue of public safety.

"Visitor safety is Parks Canada's top priority," communication officer Natalie Austin wrote in an email to the Times. "Infrastructure work was done at the Gull Lake and Moore Lake dam in advance of the 2015 spring and summer season. This included the installation of new safety boom upstream and downstream of the dam. Any vessels and swimmers in the areas between the dam and the safety booms are exposed to significant public safety risk created from significant, unpredictable and fluctuating water flows and levels. The previous boat roller system at this dam placed paddlers within the danger zone of the dam."

That response is not sitting well with the group behind the petition, who say the safety risk is unproven and that Parks

Canada should have consulted the community.

"We believe that the TSW chose to react to an unproven risk by installing the simplest and most expedient of possible solutions in the form of the existing single upstream boom across both water control structures," the group wrote in a response, submitted to the paper by organizer Neil Hutchings. "While we do not pretend to be experts in the design of safety equipment at water control structures, we believe that an upstream dual boom solution would have provided the required public safety while allowing the use of the portage and boat rollers. If required, the alternate dual boom solution could be anchored to the lake bottom to maintain its shape and integrity."

Visitor safety is Parks Canada's top priority

—PARKS CANADA COMMUNICATION OFFICER NATALIE AUSTIN

"We believe that the TSW acted incorrectly by not first consulting with the local community, and that they only informed the local lake associations after the decision had been made to remove the boat rollers and install the new safety booms. We believe that the TSW should now consult with the local community, to explain its interpretation of the 'danger zones' related to the water control structures at Moore Falls and why an alternate solution that kept the portage and boat rollers in operation was not considered. The removal of access to the portage has removed forever a popular recreational activity enjoyed for decades by the local community."

The group pointed out that the Minden Wild Water Preserve, a regular paddling venue that is part of the TSW system, could also be considered dangerous.

The petition can be found at change.org.

Boshkung Brewing hits CN tower

Mathews-Carl will be a panellist at the Ontario Highlands Tourism Organization's annual general meeting and conference in Pembroke later this month, talking about how a visitor-centric approach to business has aided in Rhubarb's success.

Earlier this year, Minden Hills council approved a zoning change for a take-out burger restaurant the Carls intend to build on a property they own across the highway from Rhubarb.

Mathews-Carl told the paper that plans for Boshkung Burger had been put on hold as the owners investigate a plan to expand the brewery. She said she's hoping to see the project come to fruition in 2016.

Liberal candidate David Marquis, who came second in the Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock riding, answers questions from CHEX television videographer Greg Davis after conceding to Conservative candidate Jamie Schmale this past Monday night outside the Cat and the Fiddle pub in Lindsay./DARREN LUM Staff

Marquis thrilled with national results, upset by local numbers

by ANGELICA INGRAM
Times Staff

Cheers were erupting throughout the night around Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock Liberal candidate David Marquis, however the political hopeful remained cautiously quiet.

As federal election results rolled in across the bottom of the television at the Days Inn in Lindsay on Oct. 19, there was a strange mix of emotions amongst those who had worked so hard to bring change to the riding.

Receiving 31.7 per cent of the riding's vote, second to Conservative candidate Jamie Schmale, Marquis was disappointed by how the local result didn't reflect what happened across the country.

"Obviously not the results we were hoping for in Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock," he said. "Now clearly the people here were moving in a different direction than the rest of Canada. It was obvious to me that Canadians wanted a change. The policies that the Liberal government were putting forward were well accepted by most of this country and I don't really understand why that didn't materialize here."

Marquis said he respects the decision made by the people of HKLB and is unsure of what his political future holds.

"We're clearly four years out now, because of a majority government. I'll have to reevaluate in four years," he said.

A small business owner and married father of five, Marquis, 61, has a long-standing love of politics, having served on municipal council in Brock for 16 years. He isn't ready to give up on the local Liberal fight just yet.

"I'll be working with the local riding association to strengthen what we have here and to prepare ourselves for the next federal election," said Marquis.

Supporters were surrounding Marquis all night with messages of encouragement for the hard fought campaign the first-time candidate had run.

"I had a great team out there," he said. "No candidate can run a good campaign without a great team. We did run a good campaign. Our numbers were encouraging ... we finished well at least, even if we didn't win the seat."

“I guess the conditions have to be right but you know quite frankly I don't know why they weren't right this time...

— DAVID MARQUIS
HKLB LIBERAL CANDIDATE **”

The mood throughout the evening continued to climb, as Liberal momentum grew across the country and the party that went from third place in the House of Commons nabbed a majority government.

Songs such as For He's a Jolly Good Fellow were filling the election party throughout the night along with hugs, hand shakes and more to show support for Marquis and his efforts.

Media liaison for the campaign, Joannie Ransberry was both excited and emotional about the results she was seeing across the country, even if it was a different story for the local candidate.

"On the national scale I'm absolutely elated," she said, adding she predicted a majority Liberal government but thought they would only win by three seats.

In the end the Liberal party took 184 seats, much more than the 170 needed to form a majority.

Ransberry believed the local results reflected a strong Conservative base in the riding.

"I'm disappointed David didn't win, he worked hard, we all did," she said. "He's a real Liberal, not an opportunist."

Marquis was quick to shrug off the notion that HKLB has entrenched Conservative roots that will never change, pointing to past Liberal representatives both provincially and federally.

"I guess the conditions have to be right but you know quite frankly I don't know why they weren't right this time when the rest of the country was moving in a totally different direction," he said.

CANADIANS AWOKE TO A substantively different country Tuesday than they had Monday, the country's Conservative majority government replaced by a Liberal one and the man who'd been Prime Minister for nearly a decade decisively stripped of that title.

But while a red wave that presented itself in Atlantic Canada early in the night swept towards the Pacific, voters in Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock decided their riding would remain blue.

First, congratulations to new MP Jamie Schmale, who pounded the proverbial pavement hard for 11 straight weeks.

As most readers are likely aware, Schmale, a former radio journalist, served as executive assistant to MP Barry Devolin for the past 11 years.

I have known him in that capacity and can certainly vouch for his efficiency and work ethic. Any time I left a message for Schmale, I'd be on the phone with him within hours if not minutes, and on the phone with Devolin by the end of the day.

An MP at less than 40 years of age, it's also clear that Schmale has a great deal of ambition.

Which is good, because he's going to need it.

Stephen Harper's 78-day-long election campaign was a massive strategic error, a plan that backfired immensely and proved a fatal mistake.

Not only was the campaign twice as long as Canadians are accustomed to, lending itself to fatigue, but from the beginning, Harper's campaign was overwhelmingly negative, with persistent assaults on Liberal leader Justin Trudeau and dredging up nasty wedge issues.

The campaign was, frankly, mean and divisive.

Mean and divisive are not Canadian values, something Canadians reminded Harper of in an astonishing way on Monday night.

the legislative process, it often means a greater influx of funding into a riding as well.

Rewind to the years where Devolin was in federally and Rick Johnson was in provincially and there were a lot of big, novelty cheques making their way to HKLB.

Schmale has pointed out that the Liberals have committed to providing some big stimulus funding and hopefully our new MP will be able to get as much of that funding as possible directed into the riding.

Thanks to Schmale, Liberal challenger David Marquis, the NDP's Mike Perry and Green candidate Bill MacCallum for putting themselves out there during this gruelling election campaign.

It's not an easy thing to do and HKLB residents had a very strong pack of candidates to choose from.

Things could always be worse

THERE ARE TIMES when every outdoors enthusiast feels a little sorry for themselves and maybe even a little embarrassed. This typically happens to me during hunting season when I miss an easy shot on a bird in front of credible witnesses. It also happens in fishing season when I lose the best fish of the year at the side of the boat.

Today, however, I was reminded in no uncertain terms that things could always be worse.

This revelation took place after I went online and saw a photo that's been making the rounds. The image shows a vulture with its head stuck up a pig's ass. Yes, firmly lodged.

Before you start worrying about me, let me just clarify that I didn't do an Internet search using any of those key words. No, this photo was right out there alongside the mainstream news for all to see.

By the way, the last time I saw anything remotely resembling this was when I worked at a real job and I watched one of my co-workers ask for a raise.

Now back to the situation at hand.

Depending how you view the world, the good or bad news was that the pig was dead.

It's certainly good news for the pig. I mean how would you explain this to the other pigs or the veterinarian?

For the vulture, however, I'm not so sure which it is.

On one hand, vultures are not exactly turned off by the smell of rotting, dead, putrid things, and here this one is at ground zero. He's living the dream.

On the other hand, it's got to be embarrassing on a whole other level. For one thing, no one likes an overachiever.

I only mention this incident because a) I believe this image will haunt me for the rest of my days and b) every time I get into an embarrassing situation, I'll draw on this memory to help me get through it.

As I previously mentioned, however, the main reason is that this is a stark reminder that there are more embarrassing things that could happen in the outdoors than missing a duck that is cupping over the decoys at point blank range – not that this has ever happened to me. In fact, this is even more embarrassing than falling asleep in your deer stand while your trail camera records the biggest buck in the area meandering by.

I also think that it should give us all a whole new appreciation for the hard work that vultures and other carrion eaters do.

Every time a creature dies, these specialized birds step forward and do their best to return the dead back into the eco-system in the most natural way possible – this incident notwithstanding.

It can't be easy to be entrusted with the role of Mother Nature's caretakers. And, frankly, it makes you wonder how many muffled vulture cries for help go unheeded every day.

All this is to say next time I see a group of vultures gathered around a roadkill I will look at them with a whole new level of respect. These hard working creatures do the dirty work that's required to keep our outdoors world a better place.

At the same time, because of this, I'll never fall asleep in my deer stand again – especially when vultures are soaring overhead.

Yellow jackets and health care

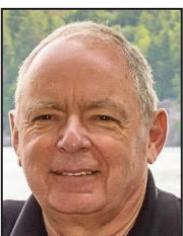

IT WAS PLENTY LATE ARRIVING but Sunday's first hard frost fell from the sky like George Bush's shock and awe campaign in Iraq. It hit fast and hard and completed autumn's Job One.

Job One in autumn is putting to sleep every yellow jacket in the county. Jack Frost got it done Sunday. He knocked all the wasps onto their backs, frostbitten stingers pointed skyward. Deader than the falling leaves.

So that's it for another stinging insect season. The one just past was particularly nasty, starting early and lasting longer with wasps seriously aggressive in September and the first half of October.

Wasps are especially noticeable – and especially aggressive – in the fall because they are on vacation. Spring and summer they toil non-stop gathering food for their colony's young. In late summer and early fall the queen wasps stop laying eggs and the workers are free to go about looking for carbohydrates and sweets, such as rotting fruit, to feed themselves.

More free time to roam usually means more encounters with humans. When they sting they don't leave behind the stinger, therefore one wasp can sting multiple times.

JIM POLING SR.

From Shaman's Rock

I had two wasp encounters this fall. The second encounter, on Thanksgiving Weekend, landed me in a hospital emergency room. Two stings from a lone wasp left me looking like Pumpkinhead, my eyes swollen almost shut.

Three little bags of intravenous cocktails started to put me back in shape. No real damage done but it was a good reminder how dangerous these critters can be. And, another reminder of the contradictions in our health-care system.

Allergic reactions to wasp stings can kill. Deaths from wasp stings are rare in Canada but anyone spending a lot of time outside, especially in the fall, is wise to carry a couple of antihistamine tablets. They will slow down an allergic reaction, if you happen to develop one.

Allergic reactions occur sometimes even if you have been stung before and have not reacted. Also, wasp stings can react with some medications, like blood pressure pills.

Going to hospital because of a wasp sting had a positive side. Once again I got to see the dedication and professionalism of medical staff who perform miracles in spite of the cancerous government bureaucracies that control their work.

The growth of health-care bureaucracies is shocking and people need to rise up and demand a stop to it. Ontario has 14 Local Health Integration Networks (LHINs) each with a CEO earning an average annual salary of close to $300,000. Then there are the COOs, CFOs, chief communications officers and on and on.

Search the Internet for LHIN salaries and you'll find eight screens of the names of LHIN employees earning the big bucks. Big buck acronyms sucking up dollars that should go into direct care for patients.

Ditto the 14 Community Care Access Centres (CCACs), which govern home care.

Executive salaries in these questionable bureaucracies have been soaring. Meanwhile, the salaries of people who do the real work helping patients have fallen behind.

Bob Hepburn, a Toronto Star staffer, reported last year that only 40 to 50 cents of every tax dollar earmarked for home care actually reaches the health-care professionals who deliver services to patients. Guess where the rest goes? Executive salaries, administrative costs and corporate profits.

Meanwhile, back in the bush the frost has killed all the worker wasps but the queens have survived. They will hibernate below ground until spring when they will establish new colonies, build new nests and the cycle will begin again.

There is no such cycle in the health-care system. The real workers survive the bureaucratic hard frosts and continue to help people with their afflictions.

Their big buck bureaucratic bosses, however, do not get to hibernate like the queen wasps. They continue to shuffle paper, improve their media relations and lobby politicians for more money and more power.

Wasp stings can be neutralized by drugs. Too bad there is not a drug to relieve taxpayers from the pain and swelling of health-care bureaucracies.

Stroke awareness

To the Editor:

Thursday, Oct. 29 is World Stroke Day. This is a day sponsored by the World Stroke Organization to hold events to make aware the signs, symptoms, and risk factors of stroke.

Worldwide, stroke accounts for 5.7 million deaths each year and ranks second to ischemic heart disease as a cause of death; it is also a leading cause of serious disability, sparing no age, sex, ethnic origin, or country.

Four out of five strokes occur in low and middle income countries who can least afford to deal with the consequences of stroke.

If nothing is done, the predicted number of people who will die from stroke will increase to 6.7 million each year by 2015.

Six million deaths could be averted over the next 10 years if what is already known is applied.

Much can be done to prevent and treat stroke and rehabilitate those who suffer the devastating consequences of stroke.

These facts are from the WSO at www.worldstrokecampaign.org.

Risk factors include smoking, high blood pressure, improper diet, lack of exercise and stress.

To recognize this day the Haliburton Highlands Stroke Support Group is placing flyers in store fronts to help show the signs of stroke with the word FAST. F stands for Face – does one side droop? A- Arms- can you raise them or does one side drift downward? S- Speech-is the speech slurred or strange? T- TIME -If you observe any of these signs call 911 immediately. Time is critical!

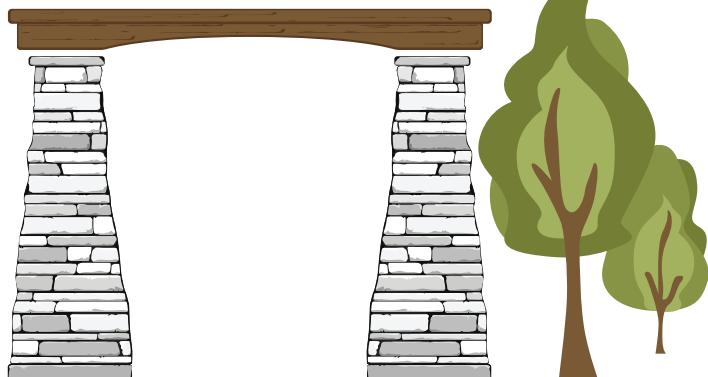

Knowing these signs could save a life and lessen a chance of disability. Look for our flyers. Our group meets the third Thursday of each month in the Fireside Lounge at Highland Crest in Minden. We are countywide and have stroke survivors and caregivers. For info call Lois – 705-286-1765

Aircraft maintenance company in talks to locate at airport

by JENN WATT
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the Oct. 15 meeting of Algonquin Highlands council.

To continue to grow, Stanhope Airport needs to begin offering more services to pilots, particularly maintenance services, Chris Kovachik, vice-president of Kovachik Aircraft Services told council.

Kovachik's company was founded in 1962 in Burlington and maintains airplanes and includes a flight school. Kovachik told council he had been coming to the area for a few years and saw potential at the Stanhope Airport.

"We'd like to establish a satellite base here, it would be accomplished quick and easy," he said.

He was complimentary about the local facilities, calling the airport "fantastic."

"It's great. There's hangars, there's a nice runway, Cam does a great job of running it, but there's just got to be someone there that's a professional," he said.

As an aircraft maintenance organization, or AMO, the company has been approved by Transport Canada.

Kovachik said a new start-up would take months to go through the regulatory process and cost about $80,000. Going

This would be a fantastic opportunity for that because housing's inexpensive ... compared to the GTA and they can just focus on flying.
— CHRIS KOVACHIK, KOVACHIK AIRCRAFT SERVICES

with his company would avoid those hurdles.

Having an AMO at the airport would attract new customers and keep old ones, he said.

"It will keep your existing customers happy so they won't have to go to other airports to get their aircraft maintained," Kovachik said.

KAS would need a 4,000- to 5,000-square-foot shop.

"What I envision is a lot of float planes," he said.

"If they're coming up here, there's no reason why they shouldn't be spending some money here and using the facilities that are already existing here."

Kovachik said summers would be busiest for his company, but that in the winter they would have a couple of staff members working on projects such as painting, fabric and structure repairs.

Deputy-reeve Liz Danielsen asked whether a flight school might be possible for the airport.

Kovachik said it could be ideal for Indian flight students, who have a history of coming to Canada for training.

"This would be a fantastic opportunity for that because housing's inexpensive ... compared to the GTA and they can just focus on their flying," he said.

"I see the whole operation as being a real bonus for the airport," Danielsen said.

Reeve Carol Moffatt told Kovachik to continue discussions with the airport manager Cam Loucks.

AH wants in on Dorset projects

Three representatives from Dorset Community Partnership came to council to update them on the Dorset Community Health Hub, Dorset waterfront development and economic development support.

Stefan Szczerbak, Jennifer Pilon and Collin Reaney gave updates on the progress made on each of the projects.

The health hub construction is nearly complete and is now fully staffed, Reaney said. Thirty-five per cent of donations for the project have come from Algonquin Highlands residents.

He asked that council consider giving the project $20,000 in 2016 for capital costs or a 50-50 split between capital and operations costs.

Moffatt commended Reaney for his work and asked what the plan was once the initial three-year commitment from the province ended.

"Our intent is to go on with the partnership," he said, noting that if it was successful he expected the hub would continue to receive funding.

Moffatt said it was hard to keep up with what the group was doing without more regular updates at the council table.

"It's an exciting project and we're happy to be involved," she said. "But I sometimes feel like we're putting money into an anonymous pot."

Danielsen echoed Moffatt's concern, telling Reaney that council was looking for a way to feel involved with decision making.

"I can't agree more," he replied. "Thirty-five per cent of a half a million dollars is a strong contribution from your community."

The funding request was forwarded to budget discussions.

Following Reaney's presentation, Pilon spoke about the waterfront project. FedNor came through with $45,000 and the Dorset Community Partnership Fund is contributing $15,000 for the waterfront development plan and downtown study.

"The hope is that in November that we will do the selection process and hire a consultant," Pilon said.

Moffatt said that this project, like the health hub, seemed to have been planned without much consultation with Algonquin Highlands.

"When you sent us the application ... in March, it was just Lake of Bays and now it's the Algonquin Highlands museum and Algonquin Highlands tower and Algonquin Highlands parkette and Algonquin Highlands rec centre and that's all great, but how did that ever happen? We just want to play. Why can't someone pick up the phone and ask us to be more actively involved in this?" she asked.

Algonquin Highlands seems like an afterthought, she said, but with better collaboration more funds and expertise could be leveraged.

The presenters agreed to be more collaborative.

More must be done to protect women, Scott says

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock MPP Laurie Scott says the provincial government must do more to protect women from violence.

Scott, who's also the Progressive Conservative party's critic on women's issues, is calling on the Ministry of the Attorney General to fix what she says are holes in the justice system, following the murders of three women in the Bancroft area in late September.

A 57-year-old man, Basil Borutski, has been charged with first-degree murder in the killings of three women – Anastasia Kuzyk, Nathalie Warmerdam, and Carol Culleton – two of whom he dated at one time.

"It is disheartening that the government has not addressed the gaps in the justice system," Scott said in a recent press release. "Could this not have been prevented, especially with regard to offenders with a long history of violence?"

According to Scott, Borutski has a long record for assault and harassment and before being released from a 19-month stint in prison, refused to sign a probation order promising to keep his distance from Kuzyk.

"How many people refuse to sign their probation orders?" Scott said. "How can the Attorney General assure Ontarians that offenders, especially those with a history of violence will be more closely supervised?"

Scott has made reference to a 2012 report compiled by the domestic violence death review committee, which indicated that individuals who repeatedly beat their partners have an increased likelihood of fatal domestic violence in the future.

The MPP says the government should be putting more probation officers in under-serviced areas, as well as putting more money into the province's partner assault response program and using a risk assessment tool that was instituted by the domestic violence death review committee.

Bridge work to be done late November

by JENN WATT
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at county council committee meetings on Wednesday, Oct. 14.

The first phase of work on Haliburton's Head Lake Bridge should be complete by late November, Craig Douglas, director of public works, told the roads committee.

Phase 2 will commence in the spring and be completed by the end of June, according to the construction report presented.

Paramedicine program underperforms

Results of last year's paramedicine program, launched to assist those with medical needs who could be treated at home by paramedics, underwhelmed and frustrated councillors.

At the emergency services committee meeting, councillors said the $85,000 from the province for the program hadn't provided the services they had hoped to see. Namely, very few patients benefitted.

"It was a bomb," said Minden Hills Reeve Brent Devolin. If the county couldn't get enough interest in the paramedicine program, he said he was skeptical about whether buying equipment for telemedicine was a good idea.

"It's unfortunate that there wasn't the – we're using the polite words – but there wasn't the uptake. ... Hopefully something useful came out of it otherwise it was a waste of $85,000 of taxpayers' money," said Algonquin Highlands Reeve Carol Moffatt.

Director of emergency services Craig Jones said he was speaking with other jurisdictions where paramedicine was having success for ideas on physician engagement.

Haliburton paramedics now have training in gerontology and emergency services has up-to-date technology, Jones said, which could be used in the future.

"It's on the simmer. It's not boiling right now," he said, adding he was hopeful an opportunity would come along to rekindle the program.

Paramedic call volumes stable

The addition of the Tory Hill base has alleviated some of the pressure on paramedics, emergency services director Craig Jones said.

Between July and September, there were more calls than normal, but it was manageable.

"We have had a slight increase in emergency calls over previous years; however this has been mitigated by actively managing when our vehicles are available to do non-emergency calls through our deployment plan. We have seen a decrease in the number of non-emergency transfers. This frees up our ambulances to perform emergency calls within the community and only allows for the performance of non-emergency calls when all of our ambulances are available," Jones wrote in his report to the committee.

Having the base in Tory Hill meant that it was easier for paramedics to serve Highlands East and in 2015, calls serviced by paramedics outside of the county has numbered 126 compared to 147 in 2014 and 170 in 2013.

Library's e-book costs too high: councillors

County councillors were dismayed to hear the prices libraries have to pay to access e-books and the restrictions publishers put on those books after sale.

County librarian Bessie Sullivan told the finance and correspondence committee that the ability of the library to purchase current titles is hindered by the prices they have to pay.

For example, Margaret Atwood's Maddaddam series would cost about $16 for the typical consumer, but $85 for the library.

In addition, publishers put time limits or loan limits on e-books, Sullivan explained.

When the library buys a paper copy of a book, it has it until it physically falls apart. E-books, on the other hand, can be restricted to as few as 26 reads before the library must re-purchase.

The province has also recently cut the library's access to databases. With all of these pressures, Sullivan said the library board would have some difficult decisions to make.

E-books are popular with Haliburton readers as they bridge geography to library branches and come in handy when weather doesn't permit driving to get a book.

Councillors didn't appreciate the increased costs and voted to back a motion from the Association of Municipalities of Ontario to ask the Minister of Tourism, Culture and Sport to find a way to make buying e-books less costly for libraries.

Tourism dept changes things up

The Destination Guide, the county's primary tourism handout, will be changing substantially.

Tourism director Amanda Virtanen told the tourism committee that money could be saved if the booklet, which is more than 40 pages thick, was reduced or turned into a map instead.

Councillors said they liked the idea of converting to a map size with fewer advertisements. One side would feature useful information such as events or accommodations. The change would reduce the cost of the product by at least $15,000 (though the Destination Guide usually broke even or came close thanks to advertisements).

In addition, Virtanen asked if councillors would be interested in changing the name.

"Destination" is a tourism industry term, she said, and it would make more sense to use words like "explore" and "discover."

She will bring those options to the next full county council meeting for a decision.

New website

Virtanen also gave a brief overview of the county's new website at the meeting, which has been simplified and geared to different types of visitors the Highlands attracts.

The former website received fewer than 1,000 visits a month and was managed off-site. The new website is managed in-house and is less expensive.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS AND HUNTING FEATURE

Staying safe while hunting from your tree stand

By Steve Galea

These days bow and gun hunters commonly use tree stands for bear, deer and moose. A properly placed stand provides a great vantage point and keeps you over the normal line of sight of the animals you're hunting. Most importantly, it keeps your scent above it all too.

But tree stands, like all hunting tools, can kill or seriously injure you if used carelessly.

Here are a few practices to help you stay safe:

Before using a stand, always read the manual or watch the product safety video. Do this frequently and certainly prior to each hunting season.

The author inspecting his tree stand prior to the season.

Ensure your stand is in good condition. Pay particular attention to any rust, welds and the platform. Make sure straps are not torn or frayed; confirm all parts are there.

Initially, set up your stand up in a controlled environment with good lighting, low to the ground. This will help you familiarize yourself with it in a relaxed setting.

Try to set up stands on straight, vertical, healthy, rough-barked trees of a diameter recommended in your instruction manual. If possible, avoid setting up over rocky ground or other unsafe features.

Don't skimp on screw-in steps if you need them.

Don't even think about climbing into a tree stand if you are tired, suffering from dizzy spells, feeling ill, under medication, or the influence of alcohol or drugs. Better yet, don't hunt at all.

Always wear a safety harness when climbing, descending or sitting on the stand.

Stay on the ground if wind is causing the excessive tree sway or you suspect ice has built up on climbing steps, ladders or platform.

If you find yourself dozing off in a tree stand – it's easy to do – it's time to get down.

Always let someone know which stand you are using and how long you plan on staying. Text or phone if those plans change.

Never reuse a safety harness after falling out of a stand. It can no longer be guaranteed safe after it has saved you on the first fall.

Learn how to avoid suspension trauma should you find yourself hanging from a safety harness after falling out of a stand. Most harness manuals have excellent instructions on this. If not, look up these techniques on YouTube.

Know how to perform a self-rescue when hanging from your harness.

Keep your cellphone accessible.

Never carry gear while climbing into the stand. Instead, use a haul rope to raise and lower gear.

Never raise or lower a loaded firearm or crossbow.

Wear footwear that isn't clumsy or slippery on your stand's platform.

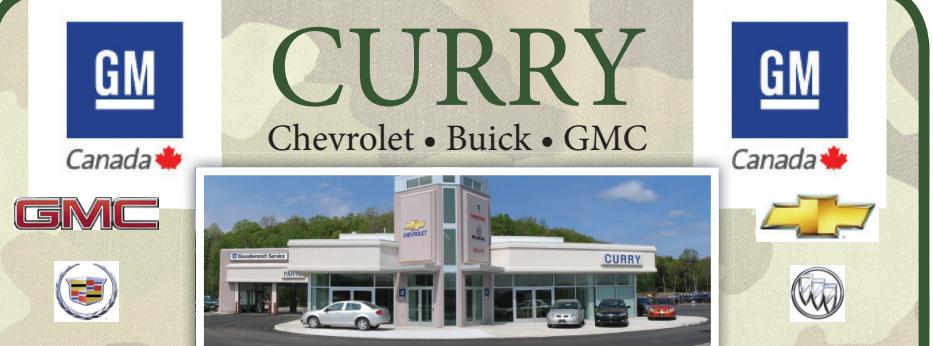

Ensure you plus your gear don't exceed the recommended weight capacity of the stand.

Do not step into a homemade tree stand unless you are absolutely certain of its safety.

Student Vote inspires students to care

by DARREN LUM
Times Staff

Archie Stouffer Elementary School (ASES) students are gaining a deeper appreciation of the electoral process after months of work and study related to exercising their democratic right in the Student Vote 2015.

Student Vote is a flagship program of the nationally registered charity CIVIX, which works to build the skills and habits of citizenship for young people. It partnered with Elections Canada to provide the vote free to students.

The Grade 5s taught by ASES Grade 5/6 teacher Kevin Buchanan started the second week of school in September learning about the structure of government, including the different levels of municipal, provincial and federal. During these lessons, Buchanan also educated the students about the local candidates and lessons on the stances taken by each.

He believes any time young people can be aware of the issues and what politicians will do about them is an accomplishment.

"Where I might forget the name of a candidate when I'm doing a lesson the kids know their names and that is a major accomplishment, I think, for a nine-year-old to know their names, know their party and now that they have done the research they can actually say that this candidate stands for this and I can agree with that. This candidate stands for this and I don't necessarily agree with that."

Student Vote Week is from Oct. 13 to 16 and CIVIX said there were more than 7,000 schools in Canada that participated.

Like the country, the ASES students voted Liberal, giving 31.04 per cent of the vote to Liberal candidate David Marquis for Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock. There were 59 votes cast by students from Grade 5 to Grade 8.

There were a total of 2,394 votes cast for the Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock riding, which included Haliburton County students from ASES, Wilberforce Elementary School and Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, where 205 of 487 cast votes.

With the exception of WES, which voted Conservative (43.28 per cent), the other schools voted in the Liberals with 37.5 per cent. Second were the Conservatives with 26.01 per cent of the vote followed by the New Democratic Party with 19.66 per cent and the Green Party with 12.04 per cent.

J.Douglas Hodgson Elementary School and the Minden/Haliburton Homeschoolers requested ballots, but their ballots were not recognized in the final online tally (www.studentvote.ca/results/home/national_results/7).

Although the Grade 6 students in Buchanan's blended class did not have the same class opportunity to learn about the issues or the candidates, they were allowed to vote. Buchanan said this reflects a reality in any election.

Part of the study for the Grade 5s included a ranking of candidates according to what platform ideas they agreed with the most to the least, which was immediately followed by their vote on Friday, Oct. 16.

Through the process, Buchanan encouraged the students informally to talk to their parents about the issues related to articles in the newspapers and online.

Some students not only did that, but gathered information on their own, outside of class time.

"Several students said their parents had already voted in the preliminary voting. They know who their parents voted for and have had that discussion. So, it's obvious that it's being discussed in and around dinner tables. That is a victory in my mind," he said.

He also challenged the students to speak to their parents, testing them on their knowledge of the issues.

One of the issues for the students was a conscious effort to protect the environment when looking at economic drivers for the area such as manufacturing.

This experience is benefit to the community, he said, as it will make them better citizens.

"It really is a level of understanding that is I think is beyond what a nine-year-old would usually have of the electoral process and it does link to the curriculum in that they need to be active citizens in the decisions that happen around them in the country and outside their country," he said.

He was most surprised by the level of interest from his students on their own time.

"At any given point they would say, 'I heard this and I heard about that' about any particular issue I raised," he said. "So, yeah, they're listening."

Now the students will demonstrate what they've learned by working to complete a major research project where the student will assume the role of the candidate and implement an action plan to execute one of the ideas.

Buchanan said this learning experience could influence his students to be politically aware and involved as adults.

"I'm hoping it will translate into being more involved further on in their lives. At this level there is very little they can do, but just the realization when they get a little older they can have an impact. They can have a say in the way their lives are run. Even though this is a federal election there is a lot of local issues that were in debates among the candidates that they actually feel very strongly about," he said.

Archie Stouffer Elementary School Grade 5 student Zita Suranyi casts her vote on Friday Oct. 16, as part of the class's participation in Student Vote. Zita was part of a group, who learned about the electoral process, including the various candidates and their stances on issues for the local riding./DARREN LUM Staff

Lucky bringing country-tinged folk to Dominion

by JENN WATT
Editor

The highlight of Zachary Lucky's musical career hasn't been a specific award, release or performance – the highlight is the career itself.

When he took a chance on music in 2010, quitting his job as a "coffee slinger" to become a folk singer, his direction was uncertain. He just knew that he loved music and songwriting and wanted to commit to that dream.

Five years later, the Saskatoon-born artist has become a successful touring musician, performing across Canada, the U.S. and U.K.

"I don't think I would have expected that it would have taken me to New Mexico or to Nashville or to London, England or to Helsinki," said Lucky in an interview.

"When I started doing this it was merely just something I loved, you know? It was a passion: playing music and writing songs. And it's become so much more. It's become my life. It's enveloped me," he said.

When he decided to make his passion into his career, Lucky had just recorded his second EP, his first studio experience. Called Come and Gone, it garnered the kind of attention he was hoping for.

"I really felt like people had started to listen and I'd started to get some reviews and a fairly extensive Canadian tour behind it too," he said.

"With themes that vacillate between restless wanderlust and yearning for home, Come and Gone exudes a sense of longing that's most familiar on the prairies but is recognizable to anyone who's ever smoked a cigarette alone in their room at two a.m.," wrote Rachel Saunders of the album on exclaim.ca.

Come and Gone was followed by Saskatchewan in 2012 and The Ballad of Losing You in 2013.

Lucky describes himself as a folk musician with country influences. "I definitely have a strong appreciation for traditional country and western music and I take a lot of cues from that, but I also I'm strongly rooted in traditional folk music as well," he said.

In September, he released two new songs – Copper Kettle and Dublin Blues – and is touring in support of that release.

His tour will bring him to Minden's Dominion Hotel on Saturday, Oct. 24.

"I absolutely love Minden and I'm super excited to finally get up there," Lucky said.

He has spent some time in the area including a month at a nearby lake, and said Minden is the second last stop on his tour, which started in Vancouver.

Originally, the tour was supposed to be much larger, but issues with American visas meant he had to reorganize himself, starting with getting across the country by car.

Lucky has toured with groups before, but this time he is performing solo. It means he gets to do things his own way, a more intimate and personal show. However, it can also be lonesome.

"Driving from Toronto to Vancouver alone was wretched. I was a shell of a man," he laughs. "The first show I was so awkward because I hadn't talked to anybody in five days and I'd been driving straight."

Lucky now lives in Toronto and says the high number of talented young songwriters is inspiring and pushes him to be better. Saskatchewan is still his home though.

He is actually the second Lucky in his family to become a touring musician. His grandfather, Smiling Johnny Lucky, was a touring country singer and entertainer. And although the two have had parallel life paths, Zachary Lucky says he actually didn't know his grandfather as a musician while he was alive.

"The only time I'd ever see Johnny, he used to have country music jamborees on the family farm. As a teenager he would pop into our house once a year and sleep in our spare bedroom when he was playing shows around Saskatoon," he said.

As a teenager, Lucky wasn't overly interested in country music. It was only later that he came to enjoy the genre enough to appreciate what his grandfather had been up to.

"Johnny was very traditional. The music that he made when he was young was amazing," he said.

Lucky is working on recording many of the songs his grandfather wrote, which today are only accessible on cassettes and records.

Fueled by the challenge of articulating the human experience, Lucky says he isn't overly interested in the fame side of the industry.

He had a daughter in the spring and her emergence in the world has made him focus on what's important.

"I'm a little more concerned about being a good person and writing good songs these days," he said.

You can listen to Zachary Lucky's music online at zacharylucky.com.

He will be performing at the Dominion Hotel on Saturday, Oct. 24 starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are available online at dominionhotelpub.ca for $10 or at the door for $15. For more information contact the Dominion at 705-286-6954.

ATV riders should prepare for emergencies

Barry Lord, trails manager for Haliburton ATV Association, received a call for help at 7:41 p.m. on Saturday evening, Oct. 10. A party of five people, four adults and a 10-year-old, were lost near Trail T31, south of Anson Mountain. One of the party had hit a tree and they were reluctant to leave the incapacitated machine. They had called the OPP at 5:30 p.m. and while officers were dispatched, they had difficulty reaching them. Officers took the shortest route into the location but it was blocked by too many trees and they found the old snowmobile trail no longer passable.

The OPP did keep in contact with the group by phone but eventually the party had to abandon the machine and try to find their way out of the area themselves. Trying to interpret signs and routes in the dark hindered their progress so it was a long drive out.

Having checked with the OPP that officers would be going out to find the party, Lord had not called upon HATVA volunteers to respond that evening. On Sunday, after receiving another call from one of the riders, Lord, accompanied by Joel Bocknek, an HATVA director, arranged to take them back in to retrieve the machine and help pull it out. It took three hours to get to the breakdown site and 3 1/2 hours to pull out the machine, one of two new machines the riders had recently purchased. They were very appreciative of the help.

Lord advises trail riders, "It can take up to four to six hours for the OPP to find riders lost or broken down on the trails. People should always have food and water for such emergencies. It's important to have a strong tow rope in case you have to pull a machine out of the bush. If you don't go out on one of the dozen group rides organized by HATVA throughout the season, remember never to ride the trails alone and let people know where you are going so help can be sent out if you don't return when expected. Always have a trail map, so you can stay on currently maintained trails."

Submitted by Pauline L. Johnson

Storm wins Matt Duchene Fall Classic

The Peewee A Storm came away victorious at the Duchene Fall Classic.
/JASON GLECOFF Photo

Over the weekend, the Joanne Sharpley's Source For Sports Highland Storm Peewee A boys hosted the Matt Duchene Fall Classic, and won the tournament championship, going undefeated in the process.

In the first game of the round robin, the Storm were facing a familiar foe in the Sturgeon Lake Thunder.

The game was a tightly contested battle, with the two teams skating away with a 2-2 tie.

Goal scorers were Alex Little and Joe Boice, both goals unassisted.

The second game of the day had the Newcastle Stars slated as opponents. The Storm were victorious running away with this one, with an offensive supernova destroying the Stars 9-0. The score says it all in this matchup, as the Storm had three times as many goals as the Stars had shots.

In the third and final contest of the day, the boys were matched up against a very well rounded Mariposa Lightning team with lots of fire power. Our boys scored two goals a period, and stellar goaltending from Darian Maddock turned away all but one of the Lightning numerous grade A scoring chances. Leading the way in scoring were Joe Boice with two goals and an assist, Tyson Clements with a goal and an assist, Dylan Keffler with a goal and an assist, Jake Sisson and Alex Little with a goal each, Cole Prentice and Colin Glecoff added an assist each as well.

In the semi-final game the Bancroft Jets had the pleasure to contend with our powerhouse Storm. The Jets never scored until the third period after a plethora of opportunities, but the game was out of reach, as Joe Boice already scored four of his own, to take this one 4-1. Cole Prentice gain an assist on all of Joe's goals, and finished with four points. Aiden Neave and Colin Glecoff added assists.

The championship game was a rematch with the Mariposa Lightning, and subsequently was a goaltending battle with our boys sealing the deal with a 2-1 victory. Congratulations to the Joanne Sharpley's Source for Sports Highland Storm Peewee A Matt Duchene Fall Classic Champions.

Midget A Storm hosts Flames

Friday night was the home opener for Dollo's Foodland and Smolen's Dentistry Highland Storm Midget A team as they hosted the Penetang Flames. The first period had the home side in penalty trouble for most of the time frame with the visiting club jumping out to a 3-0 lead as the segment ended. Owen Patterson-Smith notched the first tally of the night for the hosting club on a power play of their own, making it 3-1 and three minutes later he scored again, both on feeds from Jadon Wood to bring the score within a goal but the visitors quickly rebutted to end the second period at 4-2. In a tight checking third period the Storm scored first midway through the time frame on a goal by Mac Rider pulling within one but the Flames scored two more shortly after to jump out to a 6-3 lead, as the Highlanders applied a flurry of pressure over the last four minutes they could only score one more by Patterson-Smith, giving him three on the night, alas ending the game as a 6-4 defeat. Jaydon Wood had three assists on the night; Kyle Lavergne had two with Jacob Haedicke and Jon Morrison one each.

For the second game of the weekend, the Dollo's Foodland and Smolen's Dentistry Highland Storm Midget A team took to the ice against the Almaguin Ice Devils in Sundridge on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18. The team unfortunately was still down to two lines due to injuries but a lively squad took to the ice against the home team, finishing the first period down two to one, the first goal of the night was scored by Chris Thompson. The second period proved to be the best they've played this season, where the Storm ravaged the Devils, scoring four goals; a natural hat trick for Jaydon Wood with the other tally by Owen Patterson-Smith, the period finished with the visitors having a 5-4 edge. Period 3 was a see-saw battle, the home team tied it up quickly but the Storm answered with the go ahead goal halfway through. The first win of the season was in sight until a controversial Devil's goal with two seconds left on the clock tied it up and the game finished 6-6. Within seconds of their first victory of the season, a spirited effort from the entire squad was made and we look forward to the Cody Hodgson Midget Fall Classic tournament next weekend in Minden.

Bantam A Storm takes on Shamrocks

The Highland Storm Bantam A had a busy week with three games, resulting in one win and two losses. It began Tuesday, Oct. 13 in Haliburton against the Parry Sound Shamrocks. The Highland Storm grabbed a 9-2 victory.

The Highland Storm team was on fire in the first period scoring five goals, leading 5-2 after 15 minutes of play. Lucas Haedicke started it off by chipping it in past the goalie, minutes into the game, with help from Noah Black and Braeden Robinson. Minutes later, Braeden Robinson snuck in close for the second goal, passes from Shawn Walker and Nikolas Dollo. Shamrocks reacted quickly to tie it up, but not for long. Lucas Haedicke rushed up the boards and manoeuvred nicely toward the net and found the opening, assisted by Noah Black. The Highland Storm took the lead once more. It was Braeden Robinson that got the next goal, a nice pass from Shawn Walker, while on a power play. Nearing the end of the period, a hard rush by Lucas Haedicke, a pass onto the stick of Zach Morissette and he made it 5-2.

The momentum continued in the second period. The Highland Storm dominated the play. Passes from Tanner Crang and Billy Walker found James Alexander alone in front of the net and he banged in the sixth goal. Late in the second, Austin French got a power play goal, with help from Nigel Smith and Noah Black, ending the second. The Highland Storm continued to push, another rush by Lucas Haedicke, a pass off to James Alexander who found the stick of Zach Morissette and he put it away, for the eighth goal. With less than two minutes remaining in the game, Shawn Walker started the rush to centre, he found James Alexander, who passed it to Nigel Smith and he scored the final goal. Great job, boys!

The Highland Storm Bantam A team met with the Penetang Flames and suffered a 9-0 loss, Friday, Oct. 16 in Haliburton.

Saturday, Oct. 17, the Highland Storm Bantam A team travelled to Huntsville to play the Otters and returned with a 4-2 loss. The first period ended with the Highland Storm down 2-0. It was Owen Gilbert who got a breakaway and put the Storm on the scoreboard in the second. Although, the third period was full of penalties, Isaac Little's pass gave Shawn Walker a breakaway, which he capitalized on nicely. All the boys played really well.

Join us this weekend for the Cody Hodgson Fall Classic Tournament in Haliburton.

Peewee girls Jets soar over Eagles

The Leveque Brothers/Rock Breakers Peewee Girls travelled to Ennismore Sunday morning to take on the Eagles. With a break in the schedule the girls were ready to hit the ice and score some goals. Within the first minute of the puck dropping Beth Brownlee opened the scoring for the Jets assisted by Charity Trotter. Wanting to add to this early lead Emma Neuman got one by the Ennismore goalie assisted by Emma Tidey and Ryan Rupnow. Another quick goal was added by Ryan Rupnow assisted by Trotter and Hannah McMann. After the first period the Jets were sitting comfortably with a 3-0 lead. The second period saw some great back and forth hockey with solid defence and good goaltending from the Jets only allowing one goal to slip by closing the gap to a 3-1 lead after the second. The Jets sealed their win with another goal in the third scored by Elyse Ives and assisted by Trotter and Emily Alexander. The Peewee girls play their home opener in Bancroft Saturday, Oct. 24 at 3 p.m. Come on out and cheer on the Jets.

Red Hawks football team eyeing playoffs

by DARREN LUM
Times Staff

The Crestwood Mustangs might not be the best team in the Kawartha High School Football team, but they sure played like it on a chilly autumn Friday, Oct. 16 at the Gary G. Brohman Athletic Field in Haliburton.

Hawks senior boys' football head coach Bruce Griffith gave a proverbial tip of his cap to the better squad from what he calls the "football school of the south."

"Crestwood has always been the football school of the south where we have been the football school of the north. I knew they would be strong. They are every year," he said.

He acknowledges his team's strengths, but recognizes how effective the Mustangs are at executing.

"We have skill. We have heart, but we don't have that smoothness they have. They have better coaches," he said, laughing.

With the temperature falling and hunting season here, it will become increasingly difficult to get players to come out to practice.

"That's why they're smoother because they practice," he said.

He adds it's the "same old thing" where that school can choose from a population of 800 students compared to just a few hundred at HHSS.

Coming in the Mustangs had one loss in three games. Its only loss coming against the Adam Scott Lions.

The most difficult part of the season schedule is over for the Hawks.

"We played all the big tough teams now. We've got St. Pete's and Fenelon Falls. I think those will be much closer games," he said.

Although a loss is never ideal, the Hawks are not feeling down about it, as they are assured of fourth spot in Kawartha, which will allow them to make the post-season.

Griffith figures it will be either Adam Scott Lions or the Mustangs though.

"That's all right it's an extra game and an extra trip to McDonald's for the boys," he said, smiling.

Optimism and growth in loss for Hawks soccer team

by DARREN LUM
Times Staff

Looking at the positives remains the focus for the Red Hawks boys' varsity soccer team after a lopsided score against the senior boys' soccer team from Port Hope High School on Thursday, Oct. 15 at the Gary G. Brohman Athletic Field.

Heading into the game against last year's all-provincial bronze medallists with the at times heavy rain and the near freezing temperatures, the Hawks had their hands full.

Hawks head coach Bob Schmidt said being able to play this strong team before their final two road games of the season allows them to see how to play well.

"It's easy to see where we need to work on ... it makes it clear this is where we need to work a little bit and again when they watch such a good team they can grasp how this is how you play it. This is how you keep the ball flowing. Just bang, bang, bang. Move the ball well. As soon as you get it you're looking for your man. Then they know where to go," he said,

It's easy to assume the Hawks were never in it with a score of 9-0, however the Hawks did have their scoring chances.

"There were times we had some good runs. We had some good plays. The ball was kicked to the right spot and if we just had a little more speed we'd be doing a little more with the ball," he said.

He said the team will continue to work on positioning and recognize when keep close to their mark and when to back off (for quicker players).

The team continues to look for its first win.

It will be competitive against Lindsay Collegiate Vocational Institute Spartans this week, Schmidt adds.

"We should have a better game against them," he said.

The Spartans tied Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School, who the Hawks also tied 3-3 at home a couple of weeks ago when they erased the three-goal deficit.

The team was not discouraged after the game and the future is bright if this team stays together.

"There's some good attitude. It's still coming. They know. I think they know too maybe next year or the year after. We're all building for a couple of years with so many Grade 9s and 10s [only four players are senior aged]," he said.

Mr. Jones retires

DORSET NEWS

Melissa Alfano
705-766-0076
malfano@hotmail.ca

Jim Jones recently announced his retirement as chair of the Dorset Snowball and Recreation Committees. Jim was an active working volunteer for over 25 years for Snowball and more than 15 years on the rec committee. All of Jim's hard work behind the scenes, his sense of fun and quirky humour will certainly be missed and we wish him well in his retirement. He is looking forward to spending more time with family and friends and travelling to visit with his lovely granddaughter Ivy. Many blessings Jim!

There is lots going on at the Dorset Recreation Centre. Did you know that the centre has public Internet access available at no charge to residents? There are three public computers with printing capabilities and Wifi is also available if you want to use your own device. Come in any time. The centre is open Monday to Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Thursday from 5 to 9 p.m., Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, visit www.algonquinhighlands.ca or call 705-766-9968.

The rec centre also has a fantastic squash court available to all (fees apply). Advance bookings are required though so please call ahead to avoid disappointment. There are some racquets and balls available if you want to give it a try.

The rec centre hosts an ongoing book, magazine and DVD sale with paperbacks and hard covers going for 50 cents each or 3 for $1! DVD's are $1 each. Proceeds of the book sale go to library and recreation centre projects and programs. Donations are always welcome! Now is a great time to come in to buy books to read while you sit by the fire all comfy cozy.

Dorset Craft Connections takes place on Tuesdays starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Dorset Recreation Centre. Drop in for company while working on your favourite crafts; knitting, crocheting, beading, quilting, scrapbooking, crosswords, sketching, whatever your pleasure! Anything you like to do while meeting new people, socializing, and sharing ideas and skills. Or just come for a coffee! The coffee and tea will be on. The cost is $1 per person. For more information, give Vicki a call at 705-766-2286.

The Dorset Kids Halloween Party is all set to take place on Saturday, Oct. 31 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Dorset Rec Centre. On the agenda are games, activities and treat bags for all! Volunteers will be decorating at 1 p.m. on the 31st and anyone who loves Halloween is welcome to come out to help. The Halloween activities are sponsored by the Dorset Lions Club and the Dorset Recreation Committee with the support of local businesses.

BIRTHDAYS for the week of Oct. 18 to 24 go out to Taylor MacKay and Ruth Morris and congratulations to Kerry and Leonard Lock celebrating 40 years of wedded bliss on October 25! If you have items or birthdays for the Dorset News, please send them along to malfano@hotmail.ca or give me a call at 705-766-0076.

Legion looking for relatives of soldiers

Legion br. 636

The Royal Canadian Legion, Mabel Brannigan Branch 636 in Minden always welcomes the public to come to visit. Not only do we serve lunch (a new menu) from Monday to Friday, we also welcome seniors for lots of activities, host darts three times a week and watch sports on Sunday afternoons. Of course we still serve our famous fish and chip dinners on Friday nights.

The Legion recognized our volunteers last Saturday at a volunteer appreciation luncheon. Many thanks to our suppliers who donated prizes for the volunteers. If you are interested in volunteering at the Minden Legion, please call us at 705-286-4541. The sign-up board for the selling of poppies is up in our club room. Please come in and sign up to volunteer for this very important campaign. Members should remember that they agreed to do this during their initiation.

For Remembrance Day, we are still looking for relatives of the men whose names appear on the Cairn, we would ask that you contact Wendy Bolt by leaving a message at the Legion (705-286-4541) or by email at webolt@bell.net. We want to arrange for these family members to lay a wreath in remembrance of their fallen family member.

If you are still looking to become a Legion member for 2016, the early bird program lasts until Nov. 30 and enables members to rejoin for the reduced rate of $45. The next general meeting will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 4 at 7:30. This will be the last general meeting until next March according to our regulations.

The Highlands Trio will be entertaining the Legion crowd again on Oct. 31 and costumes are encouraged! Our Christmas Craft and Legion Bake Sale will take place on Nov. 28. If you would like to reserve a table for this craft sale, please call 705-286-6637. Spots are $15 each. Construction has started on our "washroom" renewal and the new automatic doors for our entrance will be installed this fall. We are always working to renew our legion!

Here at the old farmhouse on Monday evening there was a lot of channel switching going on between the federal election and the Blue Jays game. Bruce normally is the keeper of the remote control but now daughter Megan tells us that she has an "app" on her phone and if husband Greg dozes off can take over the selection process without waking him. Can Christmas be far away? After voting we headed for Staples in Lindsay and over lunch learned that the new Harveys/Swiss Chalet restaurant is scheduled to open on Dec. 1. In reply to our query why the need for a new restaurant the waitress simply replied "this one is old and needs replacing" somewhat of a downer looking around at all the seated grey heads ourselves included – Bruce as usual voted Presbyterian and we chuckled as youngest daughter Caitlin famous for mixing up her words when much younger confided that she planned to follow his lead and vote pedestrian.

Burnt River United Church Women will hold their annual Christmas Craft Sale earlier this year on Saturday, Oct. 31 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Burnt River Community Centre. Admission is free with a donation to the local food bank most appreciated. There will be a great variety of vendors on hand and lunch will be available at reasonable cost. One special feature is the selling of homemade turkey pies and the quilt draw will be held at 2:30 p.m.

For more information give Pat a call at 705-488-3328.

While in the Christmas Sale frame of mind please also mark your calendar for Mistletoe Magic hosted by the Kinmount and Area Artisans Guild on Saturday, Nov. 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Kinmount Community Centre. Members of the guild will offer a variety of arts and handcrafts along with a bake sale, seasonal music, a County Raffle and lunch available. Those bringing in Food bank donations will be entered in a special draw as well. Let's hope that the snow which blew in midway through last year's event [a week earlier at that] holds off.

With the temperature dropping this Saturday, Oct. 24 will provide a timely opportunity to check out Kids Winter Wear at the Kinmount Baptist Church from 9 to 11 a.m. There will be a selection of gently used clothing for public school age children on hand.

Also on Saturday, Oct. 24 family fun is guaranteed at the free Family Halloween Party sponsored by the Community Centre Management Board from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Kinmount Community Centre. There will be costume contests, games, dancing and much more with the Snack Bar open by donation.

At the Legion Branch 441 Kinmount Saturday, Oct. 24 will also be a busy day with the annual dinner and loonie auction featuring our own Doug Pearson, renowned auctioneer. Tickets for this fun evening are $12/person for details give the branch a call 705-488-3462. Coming up on Saturday, Oct. 31 talented Jeff Moulton is back by popular demand entertaining at the Halloween Meat Draw starting at 5 p.m. The last liver and onions lunch of the season will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 27 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. with an alternate hot entree always available. There are many ongoing activities at the Legion with several open to both members and non-members so check out the Branch's Facebook page as well.

If you find your December calendar already beginning to fill up remember that Saturday, Dec. 5 will be Santa Day here in Kinmount Village with a variety of family events. That evening the fully accessible Galway Hall will be filled with the sounds of the Fitzgerald family from Bancroft, Ontario as Christmas Music Night heralds the season's arrival. Sponsored by the Kinmount Committee for Planning and Economic Development tickets are $15 and available by calling Diane at 705-488-2635.

It is a little difficult typing on the computer with fingers crossed for a Blue Jay win this afternoon. Until next week keep busy and well, they go together.
